

(Mobile ebook) I Want You To Want Me (Bourbon Street)

I Want You To Want Me (Bourbon Street)

Von Kathy Love

DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #613196 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2008-09-01Erscheinungsdatum: 2008-09-01File Name: B001CDZZFE | File size: 17.Mb

Von Kathy Love : I Want You To Want Me (Bourbon Street) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised I Want You To Want Me (Bourbon Street):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Deadly romanceVon Helen HancoxThis is the follow-up to 'Any Way You Want It' featuring some of the same characters although this book works fine on its own. As in the previous book, the action takes place in New Orleans where human Erika Todd finds herself meeting up with Vittorio Ridgewood again. Vittorio is the brother of Erika's friend

Maggie's new husband, Ren (Maggie and Ren's romance was the focus of the previous book) and, like Ren, Vittorio is a lampr, a kind of vampire. Erika doesn't know this, however, she just knows that her very accurate psychic has prophesied that she will find the prince of her dreams, and described someone who sounds very like Vittorio. Vittorio likes Erika a lot. However he knows that his former girlfriends have all died, many in rather inexplicable ways. He fears that a woman from his past is disposing of his former loves and so doesn't want to put any woman in danger. However he finds it hard to keep away from Erika. When Erika starts to unpeel the layers of reserve and shyness from Vittorio she finds someone she wants to know - but can he keep her safe, or can the machinations of the dangerous woman cause her death as well. I enjoyed this book more than the previous one in the series, finding it more satisfying with regard to characterisation and events. I did feel occasionally annoyed with Vittorio, that he didn't explain what he was and why he was behaving so oddly, but then it would have been a rather short book. There was no real doubt that there would be a happy ever after but it was still worth a read. Originally published for Curled Up With A Good Book Helen Hancox 2008

Kurzbeschreibung Destiny May Not Be Set In Stone, But At Least He's As Hard As A Rock Erika Todd moved to New Orleans because she needed a change--and, well, yes, because that's what the fortune teller said she would do. Not that she'd admit that to many people. But so many of the psychic's predictions--about her work, even finding that stray black cat--have already come true. Now all the lonely sculptor needs is to meet and fall in love with the prophesized dark-eyed prince. . . . Reclusive musician Vittorio Ridgewood has a new neighbor he's been trying to avoid. Sure, she's gorgeous, but she's coming on strong, and the last thing the 200-year-old vampire needs is to get involved with another mortal. Especially since several of his former human paramours have lately been turning up dead. . . . Sensing the relentless beauty needs someone to watch over her, Vittorio agrees to sit for a sculpture, and their attraction to one another quickly ignites. But is passion even this hot worth dying for? Kurzbeschreibung Destiny May Not Be Set In Stone, But At Least He's As Hard As A Rock Erika Todd moved to New Orleans because she needed a change--and, well, yes, because that's what the fortune teller said she would do. Not that she'd admit that to many people. But so many of the psychic's predictions--about her work, even finding that stray black cat--have already come true. Now all the lonely sculptor needs is to meet and fall in love with the prophesized dark-eyed prince. . . . Reclusive musician Vittorio Ridgewood has a new neighbor he's been trying to avoid. Sure, she's gorgeous, but she's coming on strong, and the last thing the 200-year-old vampire needs is to get involved with another mortal. Especially since several of his former human paramours have lately been turning up dead. . . . Sensing the relentless beauty needs someone to watch over her, Vittorio agrees to sit for a sculpture, and their attraction to one another quickly ignites. But is passion even this hot worth dying for? Synopsis Erika Todd moved to New Orleans because she needed a change - and, well, yes, because that's what her fortune teller said she would do. Not that she'd admit that to many people. But so many of the psychic's predictions - about her work, even finding that stray black cat - have already come true. Now all the lonely sculptor needs is to meet and fall in love with the prophesied dark-eyed prince. Reclusive musician Vittorio Ridgewood has a new neighbour he's been trying to avoid. Sure, she's gorgeous, but she's coming on strong, and the last thing the 200 year-old vampire needs is to get involved with another mortal. Especially since several of his former human paramours have lately been turning up dead. Sensing the relentless beauty needs someone to watch over her, Vittorio agrees to sit for a sculpture, and their attraction to one another quickly ignites. But is passion even this hot worth dying for?