Kundenrezensionen Hilfreichste Kundenrezensionen 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Delightful! Von Kay Stephen Bly has given a gift of laughter, love, and joy. The delima faced by the main characters,

Pepper and Tap, is unusual: however, it is representative of the trouble that deception brings, even for good or noble reasons. This book is sheer delight and I can't wait to continue the series!

Kurzbeschreibung Tap Andrews knows that to stay alive he needs three things: a fast horse, a quick hand, and enough smarts to know when to get out of town! Pepper Paige is sick and tired of the fighting and emptiness that surround her as a dance-hall girl. And she's tired of fearing Jordan Beckett, a violent patron with his attention on her. Pepper gets her chance to escape when a woman injured in a stagecoach wreck dies in her room. The stranger, a refined, educated Christian, informs Pepper she was on her way west to marry a rancher she knew only through his letters. Pepper decides to assume her identity and get a possible fresh start. But unknown to Pepper, her fiance is not really the Christian man who corresponded with the woman from the wreck. He has been killed by Indians and a prison escapee named Tap Andrews has decided to pass himself off as the rancher. What will happen when the pair meet?
